AMERICANS ARE LEAVING GERMANY

In the Belief That the Severing of Relations Between the United States and That Country Cannot Be Averted

(Special to The Herald.)
Rotterdam, Aug. 26.—Scores of Americans are hastening from Germany in the belief that the severing of relations between the United States and the German government cannot be averted. Many of those arriving here are confidential agents who have been instructed by the concerns they represent to return to England at once. They state that while calm prevails in Berlin the general impression among Americans there is that Ambassador Gerard and his attaches have made preparations to leave at a moment's notice. It is reported from Washington that Ambassador von Bernstorff told Secretary Lansing that Germany will disavow the sinking of the Arabic.

PORTSMOUTH GIRL MARRIES ON THE QUIET AT MELROSE

Miss Blanche G. Rand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rand of this city and Joseph Harris, a former pitcher of the Boston American League baseball team were quietly married at Melrose on Wednesday by Rev. Paul Sterling, former pastor of the Trinity church. The couple had planned to carry out their plans secretly but a brother of the groom learned of their marriage and let the secret out.

Harris, for years has resided in Melrose where he is connected with the fire department. September 1, 1906, he pitched a twenty-four inning game against the Philadelphia Americans, in which the Boston team was defeated by the score of 2 to 1. The game is the longest in the history of the big leagues.

The marriage took place about noon. Soon after, Mr. Harris and his wife were waiting at the Melrose station for a train. The groom's brother put in an appearance with a package of confetti, which he began to throw at the couple. This drew a crowd and an investigation disclosed that the marriage had really taken place although the brother had only surmised it at that time.

bury Beach where they will spend a two weeks' honeymoon. Returning they will reside at Melrose, where Harris will continue his duties as a fireman.

Paris, Aug. 26.—The greatest air raid since the war began was reported today by the French war office. Dillingen, in Rhemish Prussia, Germany, was attacked by 62 war aeroplanes of the French. One hundred and fifty bombs were dropped upon the town and great damage was done to the blast furnaces and munition factories.

Dillingen is 28 miles south of Treves, and since the war broke out has been an important manufacturing center in western Germany for war supplies. The great furnaces and mills here at the outbreak of the war were all turned into arms and munition factories.

KILLED ARTIST WHO CAUSED SEPARATION

(Special to The Herald.)
New York, Aug. 26.—Clasping in one arm her young baby, Mrs. Rose Train, aged 29, and pretty, today stood in a Brooklyn hallway and shot to death James Monnelly, aged 28, an artist and musician. Still holding the baby the young woman went out on the sidewalk and gave her pistol to a passing policeman to whom she surrendered. She told the police that she shot Monnelly because he refused to support her children after winning her love and causing her husband to leave her.

CONFERENCE ON MEXICO

Washington, Aug. 26.—A conference on Mexico was held at the State Department today following the call of the German ambassador, von Bernstorff, on Secretary of State Lansing, Ambassador Noya of Argentina, Minister Mexico and Minister Ortega, both of Guatemala, the latter having been deported from Mexico by Carranza, called to see Secretary Lansing. It was believed that plans to call another conference of the Latin-American envoys were made.

Massachusetts Turns Out 7,000 Men, Fully Equipped, For the Inspection of Visiting Governors

(Special to The Herald.)
Boston, Aug. 26.—The militia of Massachusetts paraded today through the streets of Boston and passed in review of the governors' conference. It was the greatest demonstration in the history of the state militia. Over 7,000 men were in line fully equipped as in battle array, and Governor Walsh rode at the head of the parade as commander-in-chief of the state troops. Thousands of visitors from all parts of the state cheered the marching host. It was an impressive exhibition of the preparedness of Massachusetts. Weather conditions were ideal. It was cool and the sky was almost cloudless. It took the parade nearly two hours to pass a given point.

THIEVES STEALING COPPER BONDS FROM RAILROAD

The Boston and Maine railroad is having no end of trouble from thieves who continue to cut off the copper from the joints of the rails that connected with the block signal system. Detectives from the head offices are now on the trail of the thieves and also, the persons who have been shooting the bulls' eyes of the signal poles, which has caused much delay in the train service and other interference with the proper working of the signal system. Much of the stealing and damage has occurred on the Portland division between North Berwick and Portland.

It is real economy to buy a good corset—provided this corset is accurately fitted to your figure.

You've heard of the famous one horse shay—how it stood the hardest wear for one hundred years and a day and then went all to pieces at once.

Now we do not guarantee even the best corset to last one hundred years and a day, but—a good corset will last as long proportionately if it fits you right, and no part will wear out before its time.

Redfern Corsets

are good corsets. There are no weak spots in a Redfern. The cloth is as good as the boning—the boning as good as the garters—every detail in perfect accord with the rest. We know them from experience—the best possible materials at every price.

Then our corset service guarantees you a perfect fit. Careful personal attention by our skilled corsetieres insures every possible benefit in fitting the Redfern model that is proper for your figure.

The result is a corset that fits comfortably and fashionably and will afford the maximum service and wear.

GERMAN BATTALION ADOPTS RUSSIAN

Berlin, August 26.—Rudolf von Kschmetzki, war correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, writes from the eastern front:

"The Third Battalion of the 169th German Infantry Regiment fought for almost three days to capture a small, strongly fortified wood near Rzeczyn. Repeatedly the German troops were repulsed with heavy losses, but the attack finally succeeded and the Russians were driven from their positions. After the wounded had been picked up one of the dogs of the ambulance detachment discovered a Russian soldier in a small cave at the foot of a hill.

"The Russian, a bright blue-eyed boy of hardly more than fourteen years, had been struck by three bullets in the first hour of the battle. Older comrades told him that all wounded prisoners were invariably murdered by the German soldiers. So he crept into the cave to die there.

"The pretty, pale-faced boy, with his big, pleading blue eyes captured the hearts of the German warriors. He was carefully carried to the nearest field hospital where he quickly recovered. While he was in the hospital room of his captors visited him every day to hear him tell of his adventures in broken German. He gave his name as Alexis Radotchin and is a native of Petrograd.

"When he was discharged from the hospital, the battalion practically adopted him. He was assigned to Germany but accompanied the battalion further into Poland. In case of a sudden retreat the German soldiers would sooner give up their guns and baggage-wagons than their little prisoner, who has become their pet."

SOCIALIST PAPER IS PESSIMISTIC

Berne, August 26.—The Diktale Syndicaliste, a French socialist publication, in its last issue to arrive here draws a pessimistic picture. It says:

"All men from the rural districts between the ages of 18 and 15 years are at the front and more than one-fifth of them have already been killed or permanently disabled. It is impossible to overestimate the effect of this terrible loss. There are not enough farmers and laborers left to cultivate more than two-thirds of the land next year and the industries suffer likewise. The exports of France cannot be increased in many years and the talk of capturing the markets of Germany is ridiculous. Even if the Allies should destroy Germany and its industries France would reap no benefit from this, as England and the United States would grab the whole commerce of the empire. France with a decimated population will have to be glad if the present industries and exports can be kept up."

"KNOCKOUTS I HAVE SEEN"

Ever hear of a double header in the fight game?

We had one back in 1900 that was a scream.

Dal Hawkins the California lightweight who was about the most stylish thing we ever saw around here in a boxing way came on that year to show them how he planted a left hook on an opponent's jaw with grace and speed.

He sure could hit beautifully with his southpaw and when he slung it over on the face, that person usually went down and out.

This night I am speaking of he was carried with Young Kenny a Polish boy from the West Side and was a pretty fair sort of a kid. George Siler was referee of the bout.

Hawkins was one of the greatest fighters I ever saw and when time was called for the first round he had Kenny tied into three or four knots. Kenny led twice as I remember it, with his left hand and the third time he shot it out and Hawkins beat him to it with that awful left hook of his.

The punch landed clean on Kenny's

MANAGER-STALLINGS OF THE BRAVES ANXIOUS TO LAND SCHULTE OF CUBS FOR HIS OUTFIELD.

SCHULTE

Boston, Aug. 26.—George Stallings, manager of the Boston Braves, is hot-foot on the scout for a heavy hitting outfielder. The one man George would like to have in his outer garden is Frank Schulte, the Chicago Cubs veteran outfielder. Stallings believes Schulte would fit in nicely among the rest of the Braves' suburbanites. He is willing to part with two good players and a large cash consideration for the veteran. The matter is now up to Manager Roger Bresnahan of the Cubs, but it is doubtful if he is willing to part with the services of Schulte.

chin and down and out he went, flat as a flounder. Siler counted, then gave the battle to the coast man. The fight went only about forty seconds.

Siler walked over to Hawkins' corner after rendering the decision and said to Dal:

"That was mighty quick work my boy."

"They usually fall when I hit 'em with that," Dal boasted as he gazed fondly at his left mitt.

When assured that Kenny came out of his trance quietly and was all right, Hawkins made an unusual proposition. "I'm willing to box him again," if he wants to go on," he told Siler.

Siler put it up to Kenny who was glad of the chance of another meeting. Then a queer thing happened. Kenny started to stick his long left into Hawkins' face and for the next five rounds he led Hawkins a regular dog's life. Dal simply couldn't get out of the way of that straight lead and for a time it looked as though he would surely be beaten.

But on the fifth Dal slipped Kenny on the chin again with that left hook and it was all off. But you can bet that Hawkins was mighty glad to get the second decision from Siler and you can also bet that after that when he beat a man he wasn't kind enough to let him come back and fight over again.

Dan Creedon knocked Jim Smith, heavyweight champion of Great Britain out one night in London and then pulled a little stunt that completely knocked out the throng that had gathered to see the battle.

Dan was little more than a middleweight at the time and as Smith was a big fellow of about 190 pounds, Creedon figured that if he was to win at all he would have to win quietly. He knew he was a much better boxer than Smith and when they clashed he faded rapidly, got Jim all mixed up and then eluded him heavily on the chin. Down went the Briton in a heap. He managed to weather the storm in that awful first round but soon after the second started Dan again eluded him on the point of the jaw and over went Smith, completely out.

Creedon took one look at his opponent and seeing at once that it would be impossible for him to get up inside the count, Dan turned to his corner, and as he did so, he stood for a minute opened his mouth in a yawn and then very comfortably spread out his arms in a comfortable stretch.

"My word!" roared the spectators, the fellow's sleepy and hasn't even interested in the battle!"

And Dan, who was a great fighter, had a nice quiet little laugh to himself as he wended his way to the dressing room.

ALL STARS TO MEET ROCHESTER SATURDAY

Helenie Cragen will take his Portsmouth "All Star" team to East Rochester for a game Saturday afternoon and a return game between the same teams is planned here for Saturday, September 11. Helenie thinks it has a good team representing Portsmouth in this combination and it looks that way. Here is his combination. Spike Jordan, p; Jack Bailey, c; Paul Bailey, 1b; Zip Harrington, 2b; Rutledge, ss; Tommie Butler, 3b; Cragen, 3b; bidders, Tom and Jack Timmins and Art Davis.

There is little doubt but that these boys can put up some game of fast ball. Cragen has all the confidence in the world in them and that is about half the battle. The East Rochester team is also a fast nine, having played here on the season and have won most of their games. The game to be played here on the 11th of the month should draw a good attendance. These Saturday afternoon games are well worth seeing and should be supported. Cragen is corresponding with several managers 50c.

COUSINS HAVE STRANGE MEETING

Vienna, August 26.—A strange scene was enacted a few days ago in the Austrian prison camp at Greditz. When a new transport of Russian prisoners was brought in, one of them, a strapping young fellow with a well-settled arm up to one of the Austrian soldiers on guard to embrace and kiss him joyously, and the Austrian with tears in his eyes, returned the caresses.

The two soldiers were cousins. Their fathers, Hungarian farmers, parted many years ago and one of them settled in Russia where he became naturalized. In the spring of last year, this Russian sent his eldest son to Hungary to study agriculture and there the two cousins met for the first time.

Then the war broke out. The Russian was called home to enter the army of the Czar and his Hungarian relative joined the colors of the dual monarchy. Both have been severely wounded. But their strong constitution will pull them through.

Tobacco, Like Food, Must Be Fresh To Be Good

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Slicker that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

TENSION LESSENER IN WASHINGTON

President More Hopeful at Result of Statement From German Government

Washington, Aug. 25.—Count von Bernstorff's telegram to the State Department asking a suspension of judgment upon the sinking of the Arabic has wonderfully heartened official Washington, which has lived for days in dread of a serious outcome of a submarine attack. While Washington has thought that the "President" contemplates no more drastic rebuke than the recall of the American ambassador, it has been noted with uneasiness that the German people think nothing at all of the sinking of the British liner and would be "tremendously" astonished should the United States sever diplomatic relations. No possibility of agreement could exist after that act; but when, in the twinkling of an eye, the German Government makes plain that it appreciates the danger of a break and attempts to forestall one, Washington, naturally optimistic as against war, jumps to the conclusion that the danger point has been passed.

The Administration, it may properly be said, has hoped for a disavowal of the killing of Americans through the submarine attack or at least an explanation which would avoid the necessity of abrupt termination of all official intercourse with Germany.

While the State Department continues silent, Secretary Lansing's suggestion this morning that the "United States would be willing to wait a reasonable time" for the German explanation confirms the growing impression that Germany will find a way to avoid a break with the United States, if for no other reason than that of self interest.

The German cause is being damaged immeasurably, as far as Washington sentiment is concerned, by the continual barkings of German-American leaders throughout the country. The recent speech of Senator Lodge at Lynn, Mass., has attracted attention here, where the strong disposition is growing to divide the American people into two classes, one whose first thought is for the United States, the other whose first thought is for some other country.

President Wilson has been informed unofficially from sources close to Count von Bernstorff that the German ambassador, the next communication from Berlin on the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic will be of a character satisfactory of the United States. Coming close on the telegram which the ambassador forwarded to the State Department yesterday by direction of his Government, declaring it was not the intention of Germany that any American lives should be sacrificed in the sinking of the ship, this development was regarded as that Germany would make some proposal satisfactory to the United States respecting submarine attacks on vessels purely of a passenger carrying nature. Officials are at a loss to conjecture what the German Government will propose but there are assurances that there is every desire in Berlin to avoid a break with the United States.

Heretofore Germany has contended that neutral lives could not insure a belligerent ship against attack, especially those carrying war munitions. In its reply to the first Lusitania note Germany proposed to designate certain ships which would be guaranteed against attack, but the American Government flatly rejected that proposal. Officials were eager to know what position Germany would now take without surrendering her contended right to submarine warfare against enemy commerce.

A week or more is expected to elapse before Germany is again heard from. Meanwhile officials here are compiling evidence submitted by Ambassador Page and consuls at Liverpool and Queenstown. The texts of the attacks of American survivors have been mailed by the ambassador, but so far only a synopsis of them is at hand. Although Ambassador Bernstorff's communication failed to draw any comment from either the White House or Secretary Lansing today it was noticeable that it had the effect of relieving the tension in official quarters.

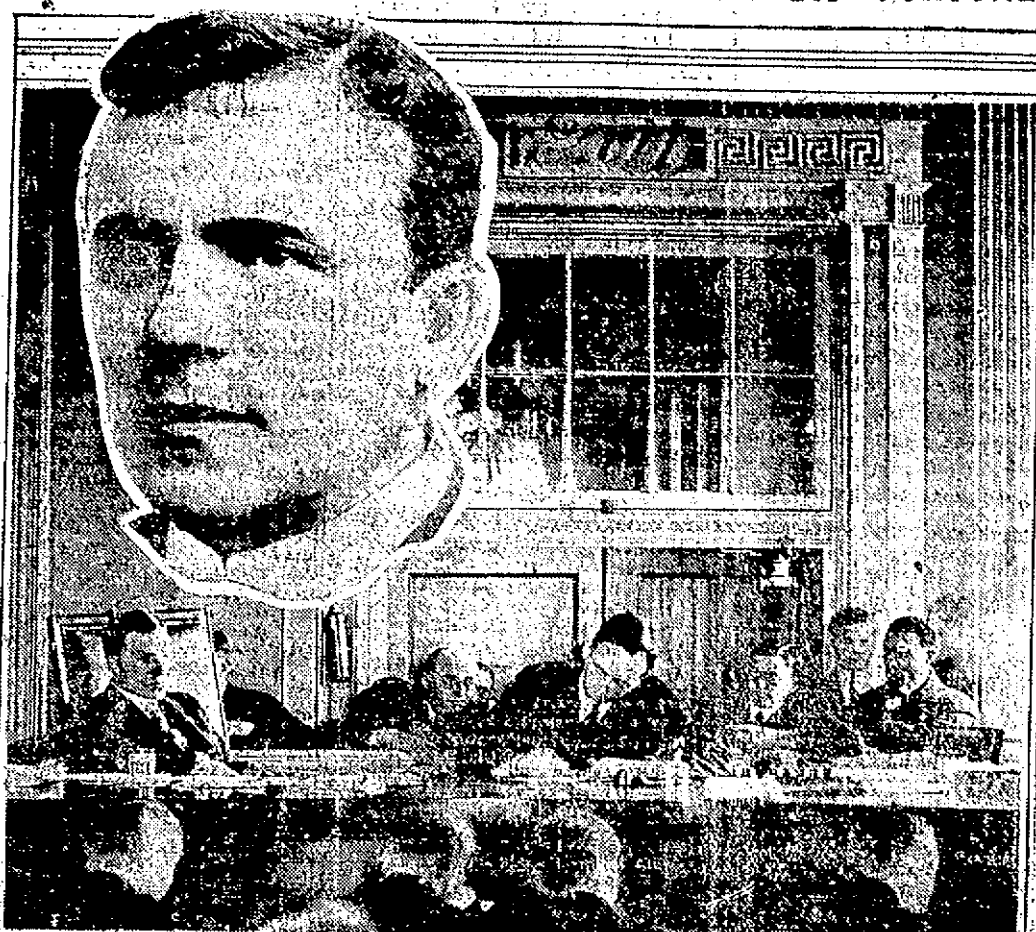

TENNESSEE LEAVES AGAIN FOR HAITI.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—The United States armored cruiser Tennessee passed in the Delaware breakwater this morning from Annapolis and will arrive at the Philadelphia navy yard late this afternoon. After taking on stores, medicines, coal and ammunition, the cruiser will proceed to Haiti to join the fleet under command of Rear Admiral Caperton.

In addition to its regular crew, the Tennessee carries 560 marines, who were taken on board at Annapolis. The cruiser also has on board 12 three-inch landing guns. A company or two of marines from the local navy yard will also leave on the Tennessee. It was said today, but there was no confirmation of marines in this city, as was the case during the Mexican crisis about a year ago.

The battleships Kansas and Minnesota are being refitted at the Philadelphia navy yard, but no orders have come for them as yet. The supply ship Calgoa is due to arrive here from New York Friday to take on stores and also the monthly pay of the 2000 marines now in Haiti. It will then sail for that country.

PART OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS COMMISSION WANTS LIMIT PUT ON BIG FORTUNES

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION IN SESSION AND CHAIRMAN WALSH

A recommendation that $1,000,000 be fixed as the limit of the fortune that may be inherited under the law and that any remaining portion of an estate revert to the public is the crowning feature of a report by the United States commission on industrial relations. The commission, headed by Frank P. Walsh, chairman, was appointed to inquire into the causes of industrial unrest and was composed of three representatives each of the employers, the employed and the general public. The commissioners were unable to agree on a single report, but it is said that none of the reports given out can properly be called a "majority" report. One report finds that the causes of industrial unrest group themselves almost without exception under four main sources: 1. Unjust distribution of wealth and income. 2. Underemployment and denial of opportunity to earn a living. 3. Denial of justice in the creation, in the adjudication and in the administration of law. 4. Denial of the right and opportunity to form effective organizations. With the making of the report the commission passed out of existence. The pictures show the commission in session, with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the witness chair, and Chairman Walsh.

LIVES OF WAGE EARNERS IN HANDS OF FEW MEN

Washington, Aug. 25.—Evidence in testimony and evidence in the hands of the commission. "Except, perhaps, for improvements in safety and sanitation, the labor conditions of corporation-controlled industries are subject to grave criticism and are a menace to the welfare of the Nation. "In order to prevent the organization of employees for the improvement of working conditions, elaborate systems of espionage are maintained by the larger corporations which refuse to deal with labor unions, and employees suspected of union affiliation are discharged. "The domination by the men in whose hands the final control of a large part of American industry rests is not limited to their employees, but is being implicitly extended to control the education and 'social service' of the Nation. "This control is being extended largely through the creation of enormous privately managed funds for indefinite purposes, hereinafter designated 'foundations,' by the endowment of colleges and universities, by the creation of funds for the pensioning of teachers, by contributions to private charities as well as through controlling or influencing the public press. "The Rockefeller Foundation's entrance into the field of industrial relations, through the creation of a special division, it is declared, 'constitutes a menace to the national welfare to which the attention not only of Congress, but of the entire country, should be directed. Backed by the $100,000,000 of the Rockefeller Foundation, this movement has the power to influence the entire country in the determination of its most vital policy.' "Mr. Rockefeller is charged with planning to utilize literature which was known to him at the time to be untrue and misleading in a so-called 'non-educational campaign.' "There is developing, says the report, a degree of control over the teaching of professors in our colleges and universities, which constitutes a most serious menace. "Urges Congress to Act. Congress is urged to enact a statute providing that all incorporated non-profit-making bodies, whose present charters empower them to perform more than a single specific function and whose funds exceed $100,000,000, shall be compelled to secure a Federal charter. "The charter, it is urged, should contain provision limiting the funds, definitely and exactly specifying the powers, providing rigid inspection of finance, providing complete publicity, and providing that no line of work not specifically mentioned in the articles of incorporation shall be entered upon without the unanimous consent and approval of the Board of Trustees or unless Congress is directly informed of such intention.

Congress is further urged to make provision for a thorough investigation of all endowed institutions both secular and religious, whose property holdings or income exceeds a moderate amount.

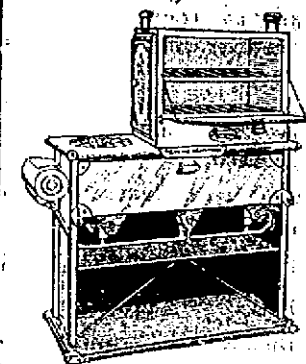

The third recommendation touching upon the work of foundations is that Governmental activity along the lines of education and social service should be increased as the only effective means of counteracting the influence of the foundations as long as they are permitted to exist.

INVENTION REMOVES GREAT DANGER.

New York, Aug. 25.—The installation of the new nickel batteries invented by Thomas A. Edison, by which it is hoped to prevent the escape of chlorine gas in submarines, was in progress today on board the submarine K-1 at the New York navy yard. The batteries were being placed in position by an agent of Mr. Edison, who was carefully guarded by employees of the yard. Chlorine gas is one of the greatest dangers of under-sea boats and many officers familiar with them believe that it caused the loss of the R-40 at Hampton several months ago. The nickel batteries were designed by Mr. Edison to save the crews of the submarines from suffocating by gas, and if the batteries are as effective as it is hoped the United States navy will possess the first underwater craft in which the danger of chlorine is eliminated. It will require about two weeks to install the batteries, after which the submarine will be given a trial first in a dock and then in the harbor.

"The domination by the men in whose hands the final control of a large part of American industry rests is not limited to their employees, but is being implicitly extended to control the education and 'social service' of the Nation.

"This control is being extended largely through the creation of enormous privately managed funds for indefinite purposes, hereinafter designated 'foundations,' by the endowment of colleges and universities, by the creation of funds for the pensioning of teachers, by contributions to private charities as well as through controlling or influencing the public press."

The Rockefeller Foundation's entrance into the field of industrial relations, through the creation of a special division, it is declared, "constitutes a menace to the national welfare to which the attention not only of Congress, but of the entire country, should be directed. Backed by the $100,000,000 of the Rockefeller Foundation, this movement has the power to influence the entire country in the determination of its most vital policy."

Mr. Rockefeller is charged with planning to utilize literature which was known to him at the time to be untrue and misleading in a so-called "non-educational campaign."

There is developing, says the report, a degree of control over the teaching of professors in our colleges and universities, which constitutes a most serious menace.

Urges Congress to Act.

Congress is urged to enact a statute providing that all incorporated non-profit-making bodies, whose present charters empower them to perform more than a single specific function and whose funds exceed $100,000,000, shall be compelled to secure a Federal charter.

The charter, it is urged, should contain provision limiting the funds, definitely and exactly specifying the powers, providing rigid inspection of finance, providing complete publicity, and providing that no line of work not specifically mentioned in the articles of incorporation shall be entered upon without the unanimous consent and approval of the Board of Trustees or unless Congress is directly informed of such intention.

Ford Runabout	$390.00
Ford Touring Car	440.00
Ford Town Car	640.00

Profit-Sharing with Retail Buyers

On August 1, 1914, we made the announcement that if we could make and sell at retail 300,000 Ford cars between August 1, 1914, and August 1, 1915, we would share profits with the retail purchasers, to the extent of from $40 to $60 on each car. We have sold over 300,000 Ford cars in the time specified, and profit-sharing checks of $50 each will be distributed as rapidly as possible after August 15, 1915. Retail purchasers who have not yet mailed us their profit-sharing coupons, properly endorsed, should do so without delay.

Our plan to profit-share with retail purchasers of Ford cars during 1914-1915 has been most successful. We thoroughly believe in it, but, realizing the uncertainty of conditions generally makes it advisable to defer any announcement of future profit-sharing until a later date. We are, however, confident of our inability to reduce costs for several months, and therefore can offer no profit-sharing for cars delivered during August, September and October, 1915.

Portsmouth, N. H., Thursday, August 26, 1915.

A Sensible View.

In a communication to one of the leading New York papers a woman who is evidently a keen and careful observer offers some interesting comments relative to summer vacations of school children. At the very outset she takes issue with those who advocate shorter vacations. She feels that the children are cooped up in the school rooms, which in many cases are overcrowded, for fully as large a part of the year as they should be, and that the important question is how to make their vacations more pleasant and profitable.

The writer believes that the time of many children could be passed pleasantly and that they would be greatly benefited in body and mind if they could be interested in gardening. This may seem like an impracticable proposition for the large cities, but even in New York the experiment has been tried to advantage, and this observant woman declares that there are many other opportunities in that city for the kind of work that is being done along this line. Vacant lots are not plentiful in the metropolis, but they are to be found here and there and could be turned to profitable use as children's gardens, as has been demonstrated on the grounds of the Rockefeller Institute under the direction of a voluntary association. The ground is divided into small plots and opportunity is afforded to 600 children to show what they can do in the line of gardening under proper direction and training. The little boys and girls are deeply interested in their work and are learning valuable lessons, and in addition to this they are able to take to their homes substantial returns in the form of fruits and vegetables. The writer of the communication considers this preferable to lounging on the street corners, with all its attendant evils, and who will question the correctness of her conclusion?

In the smaller cities and the country districts the opportunities for this sort of thing are, of course, much more abundant than in the larger centers of population, and it is well that in many places they are being improved. In some sections prizes are offered at the agricultural fairs for fruits, flowers and vegetables grown by children and the results are altogether good. Children thus interested not only produce that which is of real value, but the training they receive is worth more than the products of the gardens.

Not shorter summer vacations, but their time put to better use is what most school children need, and every move in this direction is to be commended and encouraged.

Secretary Daniels of the navy has received a letter from a writer whose name is not made known, suggesting that the midshipmen at Annapolis be "permitted and expected to fight with their fists in settling all personal affairs, under rules to be formulated and enforced by the superintendent." But would it not be well to defer this innovation until "gouging" in examinations and the practice of hazing have been eliminated?

It is something to be a president, but it makes a difference where one is president and what he is president of. The retiring president of Peru while on his way home the other day from the inauguration of his successor was obliged to run a gauntlet of bullets, stones and jeers. Rather a disturbing form of farewell to dangle before the eyes of the new executive.

The New Haven railroad is bringing suit against the post-office department to recover pay for carrying a large shipment of gold from New York to Boston last year as parcel post matter. According to the claims of the road it would seem to have a good case, but how a suit against the United States government will come out remains to be seen.

The stealing of automobiles is becoming quite common in some parts of the country. The automobile is a nice thing to get away with, but it cannot outrun the telephone and telegraph, and the result is that most of the thieves come speedily to grief, much to the satisfaction of owners of motor cars and all honest elements of the community.

Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court says once more that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for the republican presidential nomination. It would seem to be about time to take him at his word and confine attention to available men, of whom there is no lack.

The Maine sardine canners are disturbed by the activities of the government, which insists that sanitary methods must be employed in packing their product. But consumers of sardines will not be disturbed in the least.

Garden robbing is already in full blast in many sections, and the chicken roosts will catch it next. It is a time of year when the dog should be unchained and the old shotgun kept in order.

The postmasters' convention in Washington in October will be composed strictly of "administration" men.

CURRENT OPINION

Our Coast Should Be Guarded by an Adequate Fleet of Submarines.

It is my deliberate judgment, after fourteen years' service on the naval committee and much thought and study of the question, that no more money should be expended for new battleships until we have built or acquired the submarines and auxiliaries so vital to the efficiency of our fleet and that immediate action should be taken next winter to that end.

To my mind the defense of our country, the preventing of a hostile force from landing anywhere on our seacoast, is of far greater importance than the possession of a formidable army or navy and that no effort should be spared to make us safe from invasion by sea.

To that end we should at once provide an adequate number of submarines so that every harbor, every strategic point and every stretch of seacoast where troops can possibly be landed should be patrolled and guarded by the highly efficient but comparatively inexpensive submarine.—By Ernest W. Roberts, Congressman from Massachusetts.

Cave Them a Surprise

Previous to this statement the department thought one submarine was our limit.

SEC. GARRISON MAY ORDER INVESTIGATION

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Aug. 26.—The propriety of Col. Theodore Roosevelt's speech at the military training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., yesterday in which he attacked the president may be made the subject of an investigation by Secretary of War Garrison. Asked whether he had taken any action in the matter the secretary stated today that he had not yet gathered all the facts. The action of Major Leonard Wood in charge of the camp in inviting the former president to address the enlisted men and officers in the army it was reported may be taken up. The War Department is acting. It was stated, because President Wilson is commander-in-chief of the army and navy and an attack on him before enlisted men may have serious results.

MODIFIES PLAN OF SUBMARINE WARFARE

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Aug. 26.—Germany has modified her plan of submarine warfare. German Ambassador von Bernstorff so told Secretary Lansing today. He also told the secretary that his telegram sent from New York by direction of his government in which Germany asked the United States to suspend judgment and action on the case of the steamer Arabic his knowledge was due to that fact. If the original plans of indiscriminately sinking all enemies' vessels had not been changed his government could not have directed him to take the action that it did. Instead it undoubtedly would have "deeply regretted" the loss of American lives but would have pointed out that Americans had been fully warned not to travel on enemies' ships.

CAMPFIRES AND REUNIONS AT THE WEIRS

Veterans Attending G. A. R. Encampment Hear Stirring Speeches.

The Weirs August 25.—Today was the comrades own day at the 38th annual encampment of the New Hampshire Veterans' association, the veterans observing Grand Army day with receptions in the regimental buildings and at headquarters together with band concerts and campfires. The heavy rain of the early morning kept a large number away so that the attendance was not up to that of last year, although the weather today was all that could be desired. Throughout the morning and afternoon the veterans passed the time with informal receptions in their regimental buildings and holding of the annual meetings of the various regimental associations. At ten o'clock Rublee's band gave a concert in the gymnasium. At 11 o'clock the officers of the New Hampshire Department G. A. R. arrived and established their headquarters at the headquarters building. Those present were Senior Vice Commander Leavitt, Ben T. Leavitt of Pittsfield and Adj. Frank Battles of Concord. The department officers were busy until long after the dinner hour receiving the visiting veterans.

This afternoon at 2.30 following a concert by Rublee's band, a campfire was held at the out-of-doors auditorium. The campfire opened in charge of Solon A. Carter, president of the New Hampshire Veterans' association, who presented Ben T. Leavitt senior vice commander of the New Hampshire department as the presiding officer. Commander Leavitt presented as the first speaker George A. Hosley, past department commander of the Massachusetts department, G. A. R., who paid an eloquent tribute to the New Hampshire Veterans. The next speaker was W. A. Weatherly, Adjutant General of the Massachusetts G. A. R. The Oberon Ladies' Quartet of Laconia, Mrs. George B. Cox, Mrs. O. M. Prescott, Mrs. G. K. Sanborn and Mrs. J. B. Weeks rendered several selections. The other speakers of the afternoon were George K. Stratton of Bradford, past department commander of New Hampshire; Mrs. Annie E. Carter of Andover, president of the New Hampshire department, W. T. C.; and Col. John Crawford of Manchester, who was presented as "The Old War Horse of New Hampshire."

This evening the campfire was in charge of the campfire committee of the association, Charles W. Stevens of Nashua, S. S. Piper of Manchester and J. N. Jones of Portsmouth. The program included: Addresses by Past President D. E. Proctor of Wilton, Conn. and A. B. Worthen of Melrose, Mass. George Hosley, past department commander of Massachusetts; W. A. Weatherly, assistant adjutant-general of Massachusetts department G. A. R.; Mrs. Annie Spaulding, president ladies of G. A. R., and Major William Trickey, commandant of the Soldiers' Home at Tilton. Charles W. Stevens presided.

This morning Solon A. Carter and Vice President Charles W. Stevens appointed Wallace Woodworth of Lakeport to act as treasurer of the association until the election of officers on Friday morning.

There were many expressions of regret heard on all sides at the headquarters building today that Martin B. Quimmer, department commander of the New Hampshire department was unable to be present, being restricted to his home at Laconia by ill health. Mr. Plumley is also assistant treasurer of the association.

Among the past presidents present for the encampment are: Col. Martin A. Haynes of Lakeport; J. N. Patterson of Concord, Daniel B. Newell of Concord, Major William H. Trickey of Tilton, Henry W. Clark of Winchester, Mass., Major D. W. Beane of Brockton, Mass., H. L. Johnson of Washington, D. C., Major D. E. Proctor of Wilton, and James H. Burbee of Medford, Mass.

INCREASE NAVY EFFICIENCY IS SECRETARY DANIEL'S PLAN

He Would Make United States Immune From Attack From Any Quarter—Outlines His Plan to Governors of the Several States.

Boston, August 25.—"A navy steadily increased in size and efficiency so that it will be ready to defend the country against attack from any quarter."

This is the aim of Secretary of the Navy Daniels as declared before the governors' conference today at an adjourned session on the flagship Wyoming of the North Atlantic fleet in Massachusetts Bay.

For two hours the secretary stood on the bridge of the flagship while Admiral Fletcher put the fleet through intricate maneuvers illustrating attack and defense. Then he joined the governors in the admiral's cabin and told them why he had made them his guests for the afternoon.

"The navy must abide in the hearts of the whole country if it is to be strong, and powerful and made great," the secretary said. "It is for the people, not the President or myself, to say how great it shall be. As you go to your homes you will speak the word that will help to determine this question."

"The greatest things that the navy is doing are not heralded. Since the war began there is not an officer in any department of the navy who has not taken advantage of the lessons taught by the war. Experiments are proceeding day and night and today, in every element our navy has no superior in the world. We do have superiors in size and numbers and it is for us to continue to strengthen our navy."

"I believe we ought to increase our navy steadily so that in time of stress and emergency the real first strong arm of our country will be ready to defend our country if it is attacked from any quarter."

The Wyoming picked up the governors off the Charlestown navy yard, and taking a position a few miles east of Boston light, became the target of attack by 26 torpedo boat destroyers and ten battleships after they had passed in review.

Admiral Fletcher had prepared several surprises for his passengers which included the wives and staffs of the visiting governors and former governors. The torpedo boat flotilla passed the flagship at a distance of three hundred yards and then disappeared. They were followed in double column by the battleships, headed by the Arkansas and the Utah. After the review appeared to have been ended, the destroyers suddenly reappeared in the east.

On the flagship a general alarm against torpedo attack, was sounded and soon the big guns of the Wyoming began to fire blank shots at the on-rushing destroyers. The latter eluded the flagship pouring forth dense volumes of smoke made by excessive use of oil. Soon the destroyers were hidden by a cloud of smoke that isolated the flagship. While interest was absorbed in this maneuver the cloud of smoke suddenly was broken by the destroyer Annapolis, which was observed dashing head-on for the Wyoming. The guns of the latter were immediately trained on the attacking ship and thundered away. The destroyer, however, came on and when she had approached within 3,000 yards she discharged a torpedo.

The missile was seen to strike the water and then, submerged, made her way toward the flagship. The latter, however on the instant had been put slightly to starboard under a full head of steam with the result that the speeding torpedo had been put a few feet astern.

The governors aboard appeared immensely interested in the sham attack and with close attention followed the orders from the bridge which were interpreted by a bluejacket through a megaphone into understandable language.

Following these exercises Secretary Daniels met with the governors and made the address quoted above. Late in the afternoon the party left in launches for Gloucester where they stopped for a moment at the home of John Hays Hammond. Thence they went in automobiles to the Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead where they were entertained at dinner by the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary Daniels responded to a toast to President Wilson, paying high tribute to the executive and declaring that the President had left nothing undone to put the country in a proper condition of defense.

During the dinner telephone connections were established with Sacramento, Cal., so that Governor Walsh of Massachusetts could exchange greeting with Governor Johnson in that state.

STATE MILITIA IS REVIEWED

agree" treatment of Muenster, J. P. Morgan's assistant, and praised southern lynching parties in a speech before the Governors' conference here today.

Ex-Gov. Henshaw said in part: "Within the past few weeks we read in the newspapers of a man who had made an attempt on the life of another being pined with questions until he was too weak to talk, then being walked up and down the corridors of his prison to revive him, then pined with questions again, and subjected to God alone knows what else, in the administration of the 'third degree.'"

"Later this prisoner was found on the floor of his cell with his skull crushed in, and it was stated that he had climbed to the top of his cell door and jumped to the floor, killing himself. Whether he was murdered or whether he really committed suicide I do not know; but this I do know, that the suicide of any man would hardly be unnatural under such circumstances and that the treatment accorded him, before conviction, would have been a disgrace to our civilization even had it occurred after he had been tried and sentenced."

"In the South, the lynching of a man for the unmentionable crime is a protection to our civilization, while the practice of this 'third degree' violates the letter of our constitution at its most vital point and is a blow to the whole spirit of our institution."

"In the South an aroused mob is an outraged community which carries out the law, but brushes aside with mighty force the law's technicalities and delays."

"There is no hypocritical, sentimental violation of fundamental rights under the cloak of law by those sworn to uphold the law; the deed is open, and civilization and justice are vindicated."

"And when mobs are no longer possible, liberty will be dead."

"After an experience of four years as Governor of South Carolina during which time I have exercised clemency in more cases than any other three or four governors combined, I believe more firmly today than ever before in the parole system as the most advanced step that has ever been taken in prison reform."

"As proof of the correctness of this opinion, I may state to you that since I retired from the office of governor, of all the large number of those whom I pardoned not a one has been returned to imprisonment."

I believe in fresh air and wholesome food for prisoners; and in comfortable, well-ventilated rooms."

"I believe they should have good literature and good newspapers especially in their home county papers."

"I believe they should have the right kind of amusements, that the social instinct so necessary in the plan of their salvation may not be denied within them."

"I believe that the whipping of prisoners should be forbidden, except in cases of willful disobedience of rules or acts of insubordination."

Governor Spaulding said that he had considered national prohibition feasible for some time.

BOSTON GIRL BECOMES INSANE

Miss Stone Found in Hospital at York After Long Search.

Miss Mary Stone, aged 19, of Boston, became violently insane at York Beach yesterday morning and it was necessary to take her to her home in that city last evening.

Monday evening Miss Stone was observed to be acting peculiarly by her sister, but it was not regarded seriously. Early yesterday, the young woman arose and told her sister that she was going to take a walk. As she seemed to be in her right mind her sister did not follow her.

At noon the girl failed to appear and the local authorities were notified. A careful search was conducted as it was thought possible Miss Stone had committed suicide. The seeking of the officers was unavailing, however, and they were of the opinion she had jumped off the rocks.

While preparations were being made to search for her body, a communication from the York hospital gave information the young woman had been found there. It was later revealed that Miss Stone was found making her way towards York Harbor and passers-by noticing her condition had her hurried to the hospital. The doctor in attendance advised that the girl be moved at once to Boston. Miss Stone was hurried to her home in an automobile at a late hour last evening.

Miss Stone is the daughter of Dr. Stone of East Boston. Her unfortunate affliction is due to worry and melancholy.

NAVY IS READY, SAYS DANIELS

Prepared to Face Any Task
Set For It—Faster Ships
Being Prepared.

"Is the Navy prepared for war?" This question was asked at Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, from a ring of reporters that surrounded him in the commodore's office at the Boston navy yard yesterday afternoon.

"That is a question I should not like to answer in a boasting manner," said Mr. Daniels, smilingly, "as my answer might be construed as an indication that we are looking for war."

"I can say this about the Navy," he continued, "As the commander of our naval forces at Vera Cruz said, in effect, we are ready for any work we are called upon to do. In answer to critics of the navy, I can say that, the navy has 6000 more men and 50 more ships in commission than it had two years ago.

"The policy of the Administration in relation to the navy is progressive, and the navy is progressing all the time. We shall benefit by the experience of recent times in naval problems, and the navy will continue to progress. As to its spirit today, it is ready, as I have said, for any work it has to do. I am entirely satisfied with the officers and men."

Mr. Daniels was asked if he believed in a program that would provide the navy with many more submarines.

"We shall have many more submarines," he answered, with emphasis. "The submarine has shown itself, a great agent in naval warfare. I shall recommend to Congress not only more submarines, but more aeroplanes. There will be great developments in this direction, I am sure."

"We also shall have faster ships. The tendency is in that direction."

See, Daniels was asked if by that he meant that the navy would be supplied with battle cruisers of the type that have proved so effective in the present war. He replied that he did not think it politic at this time to say what types were being considered.

"The matter is being studied at Washington," he said, "and the result will be more ships and faster ships for our navy. These I shall recommend to Congress."

The interview opened with this question, put by the reporter:

"What of Congressman Gardner's statement that the navy has fallen off in marksmanship?"

"I don't wish to enter into any controversy on that point," said Mr. Daniels. "I know that the navy is shooting at longer ranges than ever before, and is giving more time to practice. It is practice that brings efficiency—practice, practice, practice."

"You are satisfied with the results of the navy's practice?" Mr. Daniels was asked.

"I should not want to say I was satisfied," he replied. "That would imply there was no need of further effort. I can say I am satisfied that the navy is constantly making progress that it is doing the work, and continually better work, I think that covers the ground."

The secretary was asked his impressions of the Boston navy yard.

"It is a fine yard," he replied. "A very fine yard. I am particularly interested in the progress being made on the supply ship building here. I leave the ship to this yard because I believe that all the yards should have experience not alone in repair work, but in building. This yard is doing splendidly on the ship, which will cost, as you know, more than $1,000,000."

APPRECIATED BY THE TOURISTS.

Comparatively few of even our own residents have any conception of the beauty and attractiveness of the roadways over the islands between this city and New Castle. The smoothness of the roadways and sidewalks, the mile or more of well kept lawns on both sides of both; the rows of rocky mounds with their grand display of flowers by bushes, all bordering river and harbor scenery on both sides, brings expressions of flattering compliments by tourists from nearly every state in the Union.

OLD WARSHIP WILL BE BURNED

Frigate Portsmouth, Once the Pride of Navy, Will Soon
Be Junk.

While the active ships were on review Wednesday off Boston light, the famous old fighting frigate Portsmouth, which has seen service in the waters of the world, will be burned on the mud flats at Governor's Island. The ancient pride of the navy took her last cruise yesterday in tow of a tug that beached her at high tide last night.

Wednesday morning she received the final touches preparatory to being reduced to junk. Oil and other inflammable materials will be poured over the aloft decks, which with the coming of darkness will be lighted, making a blaze visible for miles. Destroyed the vessel will not, however, be forgotten, for a moving picture company has received the right to stage a scene from the deck of the frigate while it is burning to furnish a sequel to a play constructed around her history.

NAVY TO AID ENCAMPMENT OF THE G. A. R.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—President Wilson and members of his cabinet will review the 50,000 G. A. R. Veterans who will march down historic Pennsylvania avenue next September when the fiftieth anniversary of the grand review is held at the national capital.

The President was in his office in the White House one sultry afternoon last July when the names of several prominent Washingtonians were announced. When the visitors were seated in the President's office they explained they were representatives of the citizens' committee of Washington formed to arrange the encampment for the 45th annual encampment and 50th anniversary of the G. A. R. at the national capital the week beginning September 27. The spokesman told the President that his help was needed because it might be the last great gathering of the veterans who saved the nation in the days of '61.

President Wilson's answer was brief but it was decidedly to the point. He told the committee that he was ready to give them his full co-operation and agreed to review the veterans.

Acting under orders from Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Wood, United States regulars will give exhibition drills during the week of the encampment at Fort Myer, Va., a short distance from the national capital, on the grounds adjacent. A special feature of these drills will be exhibitions by the U. S. Medical Corps.

A feature of the military demonstrations during the week will be a wig-wag signal contest between experts of the signal corps of the Civil war and the U. S. Army. Lieut. Gen. C. Round who flashed the last signals before the fall of Richmond will wig-wag a message from the dome of the capital to a comrade stationed on the roof of the treasury building, a mile distant. The old method of transmitting the signals by torches will also be shown by the veterans, while the up-to-date methods of field telephony and wireless telephony will be demonstrated by experts of the regular army. Many of the old forts which surrounded Washington in the days of the Civil war have been put in readiness for the signal contests and at night the city will be girdled by the flashes of the signal torches in the hands of men who defended the capital years ago.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—Any curable disease of the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills have been tested by thousands.

Portsmouth people testify. Can you ask more convincing proof of merit?

George Byers, 172 Gates St., Portsmouth, says: "My kidneys were disordered and I suffered severely from pain and lameness in my back. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and at night I was obliged to get up several times. I doctored and tried several medicines, but was unable to find relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Phillips's Drug Store. They brought the most satisfactory results. After I had finished two boxes, the trouble had left."

Bigger Tires At Lower Prices

Sizes 30 x 3 1/2 and 30 x 3

This year we have added to Goodyear Small-size tires these three vast improvements:

We have added 20% to the air capacity, which means much added size. The larger a tire the more it will carry, as you know. Or the longer it will carry any certain load.

We have added 30% to the side wall strength. That's where constant bending breaks a thin-walled tire—just above the rim.

And we've improved the tire's design in new ways found to give it added strength.

Cost $317,000.

These improvements, on this year's output, will cost us $317,000.

Yet this year we made another big price reduction—our third, in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Super Tires

These are Goodyear tires which we have bettered—the leading tires. They have for years, on sheer merit, outsold any other.

Now we have added vast extra capacity. We have added much extra strength. No other tires in the world in these sizes give such value for the money. Be sure that you get them.

The secretary of the navy has also promised the Washington committee that one vessel of each type in the U. S. Navy that can navigate the Potomac river will be in Washington Harbor and will be open for inspection by members of the G. A. R. and visitors during the encampment. The fleet will include the lighter cruisers, torpedo boats and submarines, while one of the most modern monitors will be moored beside a vessel of the same type of iron-clads of the Civil war.

In addition to the warships two naval aeroplanes and two hydroplanes will be brought to Washington from the aviation base at Pensacola, Fla., and exhibition flights will be given by experts of the navy.

remarkable work performed at Sing Sing by Warden Thomas Mott Osborne has called to the attention of the public many things that had not hitherto been revealed. In other parts of this country courageous experiments have been made which have shown clearly that the convict is human and does respond to humane treatment.

Mr. Whitin, as a result of years of experience, has a knowledge of the prison that is being made in the different parts of the country, and can present the fundamental thought that is urging on this vast body of men and women to destroy this slavery and oppression which exists in this country under the sanction of law.

TO SPEAK AT GREEN ACRE

Mr. E. Stagg Whitin will speak at Green Acre Conference, Saturday, August 28th at 4 o'clock p. m. in the Ethenon on the Green Acre grounds. His subject will be: "Penal Servitude, the Last Vestige of Legalized Slavery." The Green Acre board of trustees have made a special arrangement with Mr. Whitin to come on this date in order that the many people who will be interested in his subject will be able to attend.

A great fight is in progress in this country, and its object is to destroy the slavery and oppression that exists in many of the prisons and to bring to the people a proper understanding of punishment and reformation.

Mr. Whitin is one of the leaders in this movement which has among its members prominent men and women over the entire country. Mr. Thomas Mott Osborne, warden at Sing Sing, is honorary president of the national committee and has been putting into operation some of the principles advocated by the national committee.

Mr. Whitin is the author of many pamphlets and statements as well as the book entitled: "The Caged Man," an analysis of the status of the convict, from the economic and legal standpoint.

ODD FELLOWS OUTING HELD AT RAND'S GROVE

The annual outing of Odd Fellows of District number 5, comprising the lodges of Exeter, Newton, Hampton and this city was held yesterday at Rand's Grove and was well attended. Music and athletic sports and games were enjoyed, everyone taking hold and entering into the games with enthusiasm. The music was furnished by the Exeter Brass Band.

The big athletic event was the baseball game between Twilight Lodge and Osgood Lodge of this city. There was some comedy pulled off by the players that only added to the enjoyment of the occasion and the game was finally declared by the umpire, Joshua M. Varrall, to have been won by Twilight Lodge, 5 to 3. This decision was protested but without result.

Another feature was the tug o'war between lodges of the Exeter and Newton lodges. The tug was won by Newton, and a prize was presented to each of the ladies of the winning team.

The ball throwing contest for ladies was won by Miss Fay Freeman, prize, silk hose.

Peanut race, ladies, won by Mrs. H. C. Clark. Prize, pen knife.

COWLES' CASE TO START ON MONDAY

Attorneys In Conference Here Last Evening—Mrs. Cowles Will Be Here Today

The activity in this city and in Boston of the several attorneys retained by both parties in the Cowles' divorce proceedings proves conclusively that the rumors to the effect that the case could be settled out of court, and without foundation. The stage is set for the opening of the legal battle here, on Monday of what promises to be the most sensational divorce case ever heard in the New Hampshire divorce courts.

The trial will open Monday in the courthouse at 10:00 o'clock before Chief Justice Robert G. Pike of the New Hampshire Superior Court and the court room will be open.

At the Rockingham Hotel last evening Dr. Cowles was in conference with four members of his counsel: Former Secretary of the Navy and Ex-United States Senator, William B. Chandler, of Concord; Attorney E. E. Aldrich, of Boston; Attorney John H. Scammon, of Exeter; and Attorney Edward H. Eastman, of Exeter, former Attorney General for New Hampshire. The conference was held behind locked doors but it is thought that plans were discussed for the taking of the depositions which will take place in the law office of Attorney Edward C. Stone, 52 State street, Boston, on Friday. At this time a number of prominent Massachusetts people will be heard and it is expected that a prominent Dorrington, V. banker will be among those present. This banker was named by Dr. Cowles as a co-respondent in his cross bill against his wife, Mrs. Florence J. Cowles.

Mrs. Cowles will be here today for a consultation with her attorneys, Judge Ernest L. Guptill and Col. John H. Bartlett. Mr. Bartlett stated last evening that the hardest kind of battle will probably be fought for the custody of the two little children, both girls, who are now with Mrs. Cowles in Brookline, Mass., at the home of the father, Attorney Harry J. Jacquith. The case will be sensational in the extreme as Mrs. Cowles has subpoenaed many prominent business men and society women of this state, Massachusetts, Vermont, New York and Connecticut.

The deposition to be taken Friday in Boston are for the purpose of hearing witnesses who can not be summoned across the state line.

WILL TENDER LUNCHEON TO SEC. DANIELS

Portsmouth Navy Yard Association Has Arranged Fine Program of Entertainment.

Tomorrow, Friday, Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels will visit the Portsmouth navy yard and make an inspection of the work in progress, particularly that of the submarine in process of building. In view of the visit of the head of the navy the Portsmouth Navy Yard Improvement Association has arranged the following program for his entertainment:

After the inspection of the navy yard by the secretary and party there will be a luncheon given at the navy yard at 1 o'clock where the employees of the yard and business men may meet the secretary and his party, together with the officers of the yard.

At 11 o'clock a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. Mary L. Woods and Mrs. H. Clifton Taylor will meet Mrs. Daniels and party and after a trip about the city, visiting the points of interest, luncheon will be served at the Paragut at Rye Beach at 1:30 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock a tea will be given at the Commandant's residence in honor of the visitors.

Dinner will be served to the Secretary's party at the Hotel Wentworth. At the dinner the officers of the yard and those attached to the ships will be present together with members of the Board of Trade and the Improvement Society and their ladies. Upwards of 100 persons are expected to be present at this banquet.

In the evening a dance complimentary to the visiting party and guests will be given.

Secretary Daniels is very enthusiastic about his visit to this city and to the navy yard and he informed the committee that waited upon him at Gloucester that he would give them all the time that they desired. The committee in charge will endeavor to make the brief stay of the secretary and his party one that will be pleasantly remembered.

A BELIEF OF THE SUFFRAGISTS

"We believe that the winds of God are bearing us onward, that our little master-work, the Home, was our creation with the help of man. The great master-work, the State, shall be perfected by man when in all seriousness he takes woman as his helper."
